Irish Leader Says Government's Estimate of Number Liable To Conscription Is Nonsense, Five Times Too Large

CONDON, April 11—(Associated Press) - Following a tormy debate, in which the opposition to the government was ed by John Dillon, the new-leader of the Irish Nationalists, the Man Power Bill, which includes conscription for the British Isles, neluding Ireland, passed on secand reading in the house of comnons last night by a vote of three undred and twenty-three to one

The passage of the bill, after he powerful speech made by Premier Lloyd George in introlucing it on Tuesday, was a forerone conclusion, interest centerng mainly yesterday in the attiude to be adopted by the Irish members in view of the promise of the Premier to introduce an Irish Home Rule Bill after the onscription Act had become

During the progress of the depate John Dillon led the opposiion. He demanded that a plebisite on the question should be aken in Ircland and asserted that fifthe measure should be passed n the face of the strong opposiion of the Irish, which he said vas a united opposition, only nilitary force could maintain the British rule in Ireland.

"The estimate that there are our hundred thousand men in reland who could be secured for the army under this bill and brough the conscription which it provides, as it has been made y the government and told of in he speeches here, is sheer noneuse. There is no such number. Not more than eighty thousand ould be drawn for service under be measure.

"If this measure passes you will have to maintain law in freand through military force durng the remainder of the war."

After the close of Dillou's speech the vote on second reading was taken. It is expected the ofe on final passage will not maerially differ from the figures of esterday.
